Ken impressed with £¾ million course upgrade

Ryder Cup star and BBC TV golf commentator Ken Brown revisits his golf course design at Aldwickbury Park Golf Club

Ryder Cup star and BBC Golf TV commentator Ken Brown recently visited Aldwickbury Park Golf Club, Harpenden, to review the results of a £¾ million upgrade to the 18-hole golf course that he designed in 1993.

Ken, a four-times European Tour winner who played in five Ryder Cups, and who lives in Harpenden, was particularly impressed with enhancements to the greens and fairways on the outstanding 6,352-yard, par 71 Park Course, designed to make Aldwickbury Park the best quality course in the region.

“The course at Aldwickbury Park Golf Club has never looked better – the team has done a great job in the past 12 months,” said Ken, who co-designed the course with golf course architect Martin Gillett. “Our design brief at Aldwickbury Park was to build a top class course, for all to enjoy, constructed to a high specification to produce premier quality greens, tees and fairways.”

As well as the upgrade to the course, the club’s new owner, Burhill Golf and Leisure, has worked to enhance clubhouse facilities to accommodate functions and meetings.

Tristan Hall, general manager of Aldwickbury Park Golf Club, said: “It was a pleasure to welcome Ken back and see that he was pleased with the upgrade and our ongoing work. The course has been in excellent condition throughout the winter and, with spring here, we believe we are on the road to achieving our goal of making Aldwickbury Park the best maintained, quality course in the region.”
