PRESS RELEASE

Young Tigers try their hand at golf

(Harpenden, Hertfordshire – February 25, 2008) Youngsters from Grove Junior School, Harpenden, were given the chance to become the next Tiger Woods at a free coaching session at Aldwickbury Park Golf Club on February 21.

Eighteen pupils, aged between seven and 11, were given a fun, friendly introduction to golf with Aldwickbury Park's three golf professionals during a special event organised in conjunction with the St Albans Sports and Health Development Team.

"The children had great fun and really impressed us," said Aldwickbury Park Golf Club PGA professional Robin Turley. "Golf is a game that can be taken up by anyone at any age and is a great way to exercise and have fun with friends. It was a pleasure to see the children here and we look forward to welcoming more schools from the Harpenden area soon."

As well as free coaching on the practice range, the youngsters enjoyed playing their first game of golf on Aldwickbury Park's short course, which is ideal for juniors and beginners. For those juniors who enjoyed their first taste of golf and want to return, further junior coaching is available, as well as value 'academy membership' which includes a free golf club, coaching and use of the short course.
